

Cambridge City is getting a New Upscale Restaurant!

(Also, some pictures inside and Larry Waskom's birthday)

Remember this building? When we were kids, Bundy's Furniture store was on the left and Wantz Appliance was on the right. There was a central stairway that went upstairs that was removed for Rihm's Grocery.

It is now looking a lot the same as it did (yes, that is the old library on the left). The orange sign in the window is a public notice of application for alcoholic beverage permit by BKC Enterprises, Inc. who are doing business as the No. 9 Grill. This reminds me of one of my favorite restaurants, it is 18 On The Square in Shelbyville, IN. Great food and an upscale restaurant in a very old building and a fairly small town.

This picture was taken directly through the front door. The wood gives it an elegant appearance.

This picture was taken directly through the side door that was used as the front door to Rihm's Grocery.

The central staircase has not been incorporated into the new design but the outside of the building looks awesome . . . in my opinion anyway. The new restaurant has opened and Larry Waskom had a surprise birthday party there. I know this is just one more addition to Cambridge City but to my mind, the town is rejuvenating itself.

Let's go inside the No. 9 Grill for a look around and then see Larry

They have built a nice bar area with lots of warm wood and brand new staff

Great looking serving window and a peak into the kitchen

This is an inside view of the seating area

Kitchen from the west side

Kitchen from the east side, I don't think I am supposed to be here

It is amazing how pristine everything is at this time. Considering that they are not open for business yet, everything is brand new

Larry looks suspicious

Larry sees us and his eyes are adjusting to the lower lighting level

Larry has it now and is very cool with the surprise

Happy 70th birthday Larry

I am looking forward to Canal Days and all of the get-togethers that is incorporated around that time.

I had heard that Willie and Red's was not rebuilding. Well, scratch that idea! They have been in the process of remodeling and have reopened . . . at least that is my understanding and I trust my source.

See you at Soozi and Gary's, the Reunion Breakfast., and the Class of 1960 gathering.
